Original drug

The original drug contains two active substances - abacavir and lamivudine. Their medicinal property lies in the fact that they prevent the reproduction of an infectious virus by penetrating into its DNA. After all, it is a known fact that there is no such medicine that could completely cure HIV infection, but with regular therapy with such drugs, you will significantly reduce the risk of infecting another person. A pregnant woman taking the basic formulation of abacavir and lamivudine will be able to bear a healthy baby.
